

To Whom it May Concern,

Chair and Commissioners, thank you for allowing me time to speak.

My name is Matthew Aaron Davis. I am a long-term resident of Zephyrhills, Florida and currently a Pasco County Board of County Commissioners employee (12403) on inactive status. Most importantly I am a father.

I am here to place into the public record serious concerns regarding patterns of governmental and societal conduct that result in the systematic breakdown of primarily non-indigenous family units within Zephyrhills with limited political or economic influence.

I am not here to discuss one isolated case. I am here to describe a constant repeatable process that I have personally witnessed over the last 20 years and now have endured directly. One that operates through law-enforcement, social-services, judicial mechanisms and private individuals looking to capitalize on the harming of children and parents alike.

The pattern is consistent:

Families are destabilized through overlapping criminal investigations from questionable arrests resulting in alternating incarceration periods for the parents and concurrent child dependency judicial proceedings.

Prior to this children are separated from the family unit and retained for extended periods under administrative authority on no more than hearsay. With the guise of protection, despite it being unconstitutional and the preponderance of irreparable harm the separation creates. As families grow together not apart.

Parents are subjected to escalating legal, financial, and social pressure, driven by local departments and private citizens engaging in coordinated surveillance, monitoring, and character defamation. Amounting to social gorilla warfare tactics.

These actions systematically eliminate lawful income opportunities and rapidly deplete assets leaving the parents subject to abuse by these entities officially and privately. With leverage of the immediate need for financial stability to support family reunification.

When parents contest or attempt to defend themselves legally accountability is diffused across agencies, making meaningful challenge or defense nearly impossible; they encounter procedural barriers, delays, retaliation and discretionary decisions that compound extensive harm rather than resolve it.

This is not a request for sympathy, but for oversight, duty to the people, due diligence and accountability without the continued abuse of authority. To protect the future of our nation's most valuable resource where discrimination, personal gain and economic development of a city have taken priority over families who are treated as goods for sale.

Grant me your support in requesting a federal unbiased audit of inter-agency coordination involving local and county law enforcement, child protective services, and related judicial administrative actions taken against non-indigenous citizens within Pasco County, Zephyrhills, Florida for the last 20 years.

When departments and processes operate without transparency, they invite abuse. When families lack meaningful recourse, harm multiplies quickly and when local governmental departments fail to uphold the Constitution, the damage becomes generational and requires more assistance.

Stop Pasco County from being a place where families are managed as liabilities and objects, rather than protected as citizens and to ensure the safety of all our families within the United States of America.

Thank you for your time.
